STRING TIME...

The string, just ordinary twine, about 2 1/2 feet of it, slightly asnarl, is hanging down from the awning in front of The Herald.

It sort of drifts in the lightest of a breeze, caught somehow in the aluminum convolutions which shade the newspaper's walk. A little flapping sound, almost as slight as the string's movement, dints the damp day.

I pull the string down, thinking little of it, and throw it into the street. The flap subsides. And I walk on.

Returning a hour or so later, I see the string strung down again, about the same 2 1/2 feet, inches from where it first was. And again I yank and throw. The string again is in the street, beneath the curb.

Flap, flap. Silence. I walk on. Still later, that afternoon, the string redangles from the awning, the same place bits of grass and what would be straw perhaps break a metallic line, just bits showing.

A sparrow sets where I can see, looking down the awning. I pull. The brown nestling watches the string fall into a waste container on a nearby pole. The nest still lines the trough. Wings flap. And I won't look again to see if the string returns to its dangling place. That string is important.

And it is spring.

Ethnic Dances Program For Cameron PTA

Approximately 100 first graders, under the direction of Mrs. Ann Gaskey, will present the program for the Cameron PTA when they meet Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Ben Milam Cafetorium.

Groups of Czech, Negro, Mexican, and German children, representing the four major ethnic groups of Cameron will each present a song and dance routine relating to their respective native homeland. The children will be dressed in native costumes and end their program with a note of patriotism.

An installation service will be led by Mrs. Bill McCutchen, co-chairman as the new officers assume their duties. They are Mrs. Sharon Hobbs, president; Mrs. Gene Fox, first vice president; Mrs. Thomas Dusek, second vice president; Mrs. Irving Bornfeld, secretary; Mrs. Jimmy Bledsoe, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Demerson, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Marcelino Flores, historian.

The public is cordially invited and urged to attend this close-of-the-year program for the Cameron P.T.A.

Baseball Signup Set Saturday For 3 Leagues

Annual signup for Little League, Minor League, and Pony League will be held Saturday morning between 8 and 9:30 at the ball field near Safe-way.

All parents who want their boys to participate in the summer baseball program are asked to be at the meeting and bring the registration fee of $5. It is not necessary to bring the child to signup.

Work is progressing on the new ballfield near Cameron Airpark with bad weather slowing construction, but the fence has been put up, foundation poured for spectator stands and the septic tank installed.

Little League officials hope to have one of the two planned fields completed for use during the summer of this year. The other field will be completed later as funds are available.

There will be a work session at the new ball park at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Queen Contest Opens For Fete

Girls in Cameron and all surrounding towns in Milam County are being invited to enter the Folk Fete beauty pageant to be held June 7 during the Folk Fete.

The contest is open to girls from 15 through 19 years of age and the winner will be crowned Folk Fete Queen.

Interested persons are asked to call 697-6241, 697-3320 or 697-2569. Mrs. Sharon Rubac is chairman of the pageant committee.

City Council Meets

City offices will have a new posting and billing machine following action by city council at a regular meeting Tuesday evening. Bid for the machine was accepted from the National Cash Register Co.

In other business, council passed a resolution authorizing the city to enter into an agreement with Central Texas Council of Governments to participate in a council-wide radio communication system. The city's cost will be $2,216, with the Texas Criminal Justice Council underwriting the remainder of the $6,680 cost.

Mayor Gene Blake informed the council that Cameron is now eligible to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program and the city secretary was authorized to make application to the Texas Water Development Board.

Mayor Blake said the Texas Adjutant General has notified the city that it plans to install an intrusion detection system at the National Guard Armory.

He also told the council that the city will be required to submit an estimate of how it intends to spend revenue sharing funds to be received for the first six months of this year. Council voted to send the mayor to a meeting set in Washington, D. C. which will be a hearing on the funds. Mayor Blake said he understands that in the future the city will be required to use the revenue sharing funds to replace other government grants that

CAPT. ARTHUR HOFFSON

Faith Locked On Home, Former Prisoner Says

A POW thinks, anguishes, writes poetry, hopes... his body tends to vegetate... his mind wanders... his faith locks on home country and God... but most of all he anticipates survival.

For Arthur Hoffson, 29, Captain, USAF, mid-week addresses Tuesday before Yoe High School honor students and Wednesday before Cameron Rotarians misted many a crusty eye.

Of normal stature, perhaps 15 pounds underweight ("a hell of a way to go on a diet") Capt. Hoffson offers an impressive, positive view of life after an ordeal of four and one-half years which is raw, rank and renewal rolled up.

Yoe students gave him the silence of awe, heightened by a manner quiet and confident, poised and yet reticent to go beyond generalities about life in Hanoi Viet imprisonment. Their questions ran the gamut. And these, his third and fourth presentations, touched lightly and implied depths of experience his audiences never would have to share.

SHOT DOWN IN 1968

Shot down with a F4D crewman in August, 1968, Capt. Hoffson, a frequent visitor of relatives here, student at the University of Texas, native of McLean, Va., parachutes to the ground and is taken prisoner. He is put into a 3 by 5-foot hole the first three months for North Viet peasants to view in a meeting hall, fifty to a hundred a day curious at his appearance like Westerners touring a zoo.

The first year in Hanoi confinement he spends in solitary. (Did he speak back to his captors? one student asks.) His time in solitary answers the question. The area is a 7 by 8-foot concrete cell.

By 1970, he is allowed to move to a cell with another guy, a flier from Michigan who survived as he (and who two weeks ago was in the Bahamas with his family).

"Are they beaten?" "Yes," he answers, by indirection. Men are beaten, even to the point they beat you to sign a statement saying you were receiving good treatment.

What did you do to pass time? "I prayed just a whole lot." He wrote a poem, which he recited from memory.

GOING TO MAKE IT

We had one theme: "We're going to make it," the Captain said. And he knew of no suicides among the 350 to 360 American POWs, mostly fliers and officers, in the Hanoi compound. As well, he knew of no one "going over" due to indoctrination ("for which I am grateful").

Medical treatment? Nil to non-existent. He knew of men with open

County Teacher, Counselor Recalls Career

Ida Belle Lewis has traveled many miles across Milam County and has touched the lives of thousands of students along the way. She retired May 31 following 51 years of service to Milam County public education, first as a teacher and principal and later as a counselor in the county superintendent's

Starting in 1918 as a young teacher in the Burlington school, she has chalked up a record few have attained. She has missed only 41 days "on the job" in her 51 years career and of all the youngsters she has taught or counseled, only one has gotten into serious trouble.

After a year in Burlington she taught in the Corinth community for 12 years and at Belmena from 1935 to 1949. She joined the staff of the County School Superintendent as a visiting teacher, moved up to supervisor and then counselor.

Along the way she garnered a B. S. degree in elementary education from Mary Hardin-Baylor College, a Masters of Education degree from the University of Houston and lacks only 20 hours on a doctorate degree.

She says he came into the County Superintendent's office with the Gilmer-Aiken Bill and has seen many changes since that time. She has worked under four county superintendents and during her 24 years in that office has seen 40 rural schools consolidate with larger independent school districts.

And students' attitudes have also changed. "Students in years past wanted to prepare for a job, now they are more interested in getting a cultural background and deciding on a field of work later."

Believing that the entire community atmosphere influences children, Mrs. Lewis has been active in civic work. She worked with the Milam County Blood Bank for 10 years, the Milam County TV Association, was chairman of the Milam County Jr. Red Cross, Milam County chairman of the Save the Children Foundation, and served as local president, state board member and state director of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

She is also a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary sorority for women in the teaching profession.

Looking forward to travel and hobbies, she also looks back with pleasure on her career which she says have brought both satisfaction and happiness. "The nicest part about working with young people is that they are constantly changing trends and you must adjust and change to keep up with them."

Mrs. Lewis will be honored at an open house Sunday, May 6, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hawk in Buckholts. The public is invited.

Dog Catchers Life Hazardous

A dog catchers life is a hazardous one according to Cameron Police Chief Felipe Martinez.

The city is presently without a dog catcher and Chief Martinez says that prospects for getting one are slim. "I have hired several, but people threaten them - even chase them with sticks when they try to do their job."

He said city police will answer calls to destroy mad dogs, but the dog pound will remain closed indefinitely. Unwanted animals can be taken to the Waco Humane Society.

Part Way Off...

The President recouped as much as he could Monday in getting three resignations and in effect firing a fourth.

His speech Monday night revealed a muted, less confident President who summed up by asking support for the remaining 1361 days of his Administration, national unity and prayers for solution to problems, both foreign and domestic.

Mr. Nixon assumed responsibility for what transpired at Watergate, mitigating his responsibility with the statement he had, for the first time, turned over a political campaign to subordinates. He seemed not to accept actual blame for what is being revealed about Watergate and other activities of the 1972 Committee To Re-elect the President. He accepted responsibility for finding out who did what and prosecuting the questions.

He praised close aides Haldeman and Erlichman, who had been with him a couple of decades and Atty-Gen. Kleindeinst whose resignation came because he had personal acquaintances involved in Watergate investigation, but no personal involvement. The President dismissed John Dean III by saying only he, Dean, was leaving the White House staff.

It is said there is division among the White House staff over the handling of the Watergate aftermath. It would appear that Mr. Nixon tried to clear things by getting people from two power camps within the White House to leave.

People feel better at mid-week than prior to his talk. But the 1972 election is still clouded. The grand juries and Ervin Senate Committee are only begun.

And though Mr. Nixon commented after his broadcast to the press (paraphrase) "to continue to give him hell..." when they felt he needed it, neither the GOP nor he is, though circumstances may prove otherwise, yet off the hook.

Comparing What To What...

We know the importance of farming to Milam County and its continuing importance. And how tough it is. But come on, boys, agriculture's involvement in modern technical problems is hardly the first confrontation some segment of society has experienced.

And it won't be the last. It is one of the few who receive a "forgiveness benefit" upto $5,000 on a loan based on uncompensated losses. It is one of the few in which non-production payments go to individuals, hardly the larger number, but growing, payments ranging from $25,000 upto a quarter million or more. Livestockmen know no such consideration.

If any of us want to hear what's tough, listen to a guy like Arthur Hoffson measure off the sacrifices four and one-half years in the "Hanoi Hilton" require.

It's another case of "compared to what."

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

VETO OF S.7 SLOWS FEDERAL SPENDING PROS.

Senator P. V. Domenici (N.M.) "... Yesterday I voted to uphold the Presidential veto of S.7, the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 ... I shall continue to oppose bills and/or support their being vetoed as long as ... they are 'sold' only on the basis of their important 'social' worth, without reference to the less dramatic but equally important fact that their end result is to continue the erosion of our Nation's economy ... which means, in fact, your pocketbook and mine..."

Rep. W. H. Hudnut (Ind.) "... At the present level of funding, vocational rehabilitation will receive some $650 million in 1974 — an increase of $9 million over 1973 ... whereas the authorization in S.7, which over the next 3 years would exceed the budget projections for those years by $1.3 billion, strikes me as unreasonable and excessive..."

Rep. E. B. Forsythe (N.J.) "... The House should promptly turn its attention to approving a bill that will continue this meaningful program and that will be signed by the President..."

Rep. R. H. Metcalfe (Ill.) "... I have just learned that the Senate

... has sustained the President's veto of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act. I am shocked ... We have through the mechanism, called revenue sharing, completely bypassed the needs of the American people..."

Rep. Wayne Owens (Utah) "... The President has demonstrated an insensitivity, I believe for the plight of poor people with his veto..."

Rep. R. C. Nix (Pa.) "... If there is insufficient money for Government spending in the United States, there is not enough for spending in other countries ... While we are depriving poor at home with these cuts the administration wants to support not only our friends abroad but our enemies as well..."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Lobbyists who now pressure Washington for tax dollars; remote from the local taxpayer, may have to face local elected officials who disperse the revenue sharing funds.

Saigon Proposes Elections For Constituent Assembly

By Peter Sharrock

SAIGON

Reuter -- President Nguyen Van Thieu has just begun his diplomatic offensive to put his government on the side of reason in the eyes of the world -- if not to make it the harbinger of a lasting political settlement.

The Saigon government's proposals in Paris for elections for a constituent assembly and an armed forces demobilization to balance the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops are seen as a diplomatic victory of timing and gesture.

But they have not dispelled the talk of military preparations which has become prominent in Saigon's political, military and diplomatic circles.

The president's political package is aimed at meeting the 90-day deadline fixed in the Paris agreement on ending the war. But it is not expected to produce an agreement signed by Saigon and the Viet Cong before the three-month ceasefire deadline expires.

The president's proposal for general elections to form an administrative organ which will determine the future government structure of South Vietnam is seen as an important concession from a political figure confident of success in a presidential or national assembly election.

But the offer of such elections is coupled with a call for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops which diplomats here say the Viet Cong will only reject.

"At the worst it is a timely piece of diplomacy calculated to find a sympathetic reception from world opinion and at best it may just get the stalemate negotiating process off the ground," said one senior diplomat here.

The Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) has shown no inclination towards a genuine political contest in South Vietnam, nor the capacity to sustain such an open contest.

And it is considered a remote possibility that they would forfeit their position of considerable military strength -- thanks to the scale of support from Hanoi in men and materials -- for a political confrontation for which they have apparently not begun preparing in earnest, say diplomats from communist and non-communist countries here.

Diplomats with recent access to President Thieu's thinking say he is convinced the P.R.G. is determined to stall on agreeing to elections of any kind for as long as possible and probably for the rest of this year.

Even communist diplomats admit to puzzlement at the complete absence of political preparations by the P.R.G.

They attribute this partly to the fact the P.R.G. has never contested anything openly in the political arena but has only fought a subversive war throughout its decade or so of existence.

These diplomats and Vietnamese politicians in Saigon suggest Hanoi has not yet made the crucial decision on whether to advise the P.R.G. to commit itself definitely to a political contest with the Saigon government or to wait for another military drive late in the year or early next year.

This is borne out by the continuing absence of Lt. Gen. Tan Van Tra, head of the P.R.G. delegation to military negotiations in Saigon, who has been in Hanoi for nearly a month.

The P.R.G. has still not declared its capital in South Vietnam -- universally expected to be Loc Ninh town near the Cambodian border, which they occupied in the spring offensive last year. If Tra does not return to Saigon, it will be taken here as a clear sign that Hanoi has decided there can be no political solution, only the military one.

The political settlement and a three-part council of national reconciliation and concord are to be worked out at the Paris talks.

Sources from the Saigon delegation said they had the feeling the P.R.G. wanted an arranged election and a coalition government. But the Saigon delegates were not told this personally.

"The communists have refused to talk serious business with us publicly, privately, informally -- in any way," one source said.

In any case Thieu would never accept a coalition, the sources said.

If no political solution is found, as now seems increasingly likely, an attempt at a military solution, in open defiance of the ceasefire, is not expected before the last quarter of this year or the beginning of next year, military analysts believe.

Hue, the old imperial capital, is expected to be the main target of any big military drive in South Vietnam if it comes, and it is doubtful whether any regime in Saigon could survive the fall of such a major city and cultural - historical center.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Although I didn't have to read it to find out, still according to an article I read in a newspaper last night inflation is getting more serious all the time, not only are prices going up but the rate they're going up is faster than it's been in two decades.

Accordingly, the article said, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors said economists are considering a tax increase as one way of cooling off the current inflationary boom. The argument is, if you increase taxes, people will have less money to spend on goods and therefore prices naturally have to come down or at least slow down.

I don't think I understand this. Isn't there some other way? I mean, what's the difference between spending too much money for groceries and spending too much for taxes? This looks like a choice between curbing inflation and curbing me.

If something is going to take all you make, I believe I'd just as soon groceries got as taxes. I ain't all that mad at inflation.

I've long contended that economists are like weather forecasters. They're a lot better at telling you what happened yesterday than what's going to happen tomorrow.

Solving the high cost of living by increasing the high cost of taxes reminds me of the farmer who was faced with a crop failure and a note at the bank he wasn't going to be able to pay. The nearer the note came due the more he worried and fretted. On the final day he went into the bank and by some tall talking got the banker to renew the note for another year.

"Well," he sighed with relief as he came out, "I'm sure glad I got that debt settled."

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The Family Lawyer

Alligator vs.
Shoemaker

With ecology in mind, a state legislature banned the sale of alligator skins within the borders of the state. In short order, a maker of men's shoes went to court with the following objection:

"This law is unconstitutional. True, the state does have the power to protect consumers. But here they are not trying to protect consumers. They are trying to protect alligators. That is beyond the scope of legislative authority."

However, a court ruled that the measure was indeed within the "police power" of the state.

"Protection of animals," said the court, "is necessary not only for their natural beauty and for biological study but (also) for the key role they play in the maintenance of the life cycle."

Not long afterward, a shoe dealer tried another line of attack on the same law.

"It hurts our chances of making a living," said the dealer. "It destroys our property rights without due process of law."

But again the court upheld the legislation. The court said the shoe dealer simply had no "property right" to begin with in the wildlife of a foreign country.

These cases illustrate the legal issues that have arisen out of efforts to preserve "endangered species." As a rule, courts have looked with favor upon such efforts.

Nevertheless, if the state may act on behalf of animals, it may also act on behalf of hunters. In another case, lawmakers decided to introduce a special breed of deer into remote sections of the state -- for the benefit of sportsmen.

Some residents opposed the plan, partly because of the harm the deer might inflict upon the flora and fauna of the region.

But after a court test, their objections were overruled. The court said the state's police power included the right to make the state more appealing and more profitable as a recreational area.

Watch Sorghum For Greenbugs

By Bill McCutchen

Greenbugs are showing up on some grain sorghum fields in Milam County. I have not seen any that have built up to populations that threaten stands at present, but this could happen any day. I would urge producers to keep a close watch on small grain sorghum as stands can be lost quickly.

The first indications you will note will be small reddish spots on the leaves caused by small greenbug colonies feeding on the underside of the leaf. The reddened areas enlarge as greenbugs increase. Finally, the leaf begins to die, turning brown from the outer edges toward the center.

Plants from emergence to about 6 inches high should be treated if damage is visible and greenbug colonies are present on the lower surface of the leaf.

Don't confuse the corn leaf aphid with the greenbug. The corn leaf aphid can be tolerated in rather large numbers except on very young plants.

The greenbug is about 1/16 inch long, light green with a dark stripe down the back when mature.

FERTILIZER

With delays in land preparation and spring planting due to wet and cool weather, farmers may plant cotton first and fertilize later in many instances as was quite common in grain sorghum planting this year. Of course, they are considering side-dressing their crops after they are up to a stand.

How effective is side-dressing?

Nitrogen--if applied within 30 days after planting, results are generally satisfactory. However, plants should not be allowed to become stunted due to lack of the nutrient.

Phosphorus--on low phosphorus soils, sidedressing does not give the early growth response or yield increases compared with application at or before planting. Phosphorus should be readily available in the seedling root zone, so the time gained by rapid planting may be lost by delayed seedling growth. If soils are medium to high in phosphorus sidedressing phosphorus may not pay for itself because the benefit is mainly in early plant growth.

Potassium--sidedressing within 30 days after planting generally gives acceptable results except in soils that are extremely deficient in the nutrient. Blackland soils are usually not lacking in potassium.

The key item in sidedressing crops is the level of plant nutrients already in the soil, as determined by a soil test. Sidedressing fertilizer within 30 days after planting is generally satisfactory except in soils low in phosphorus.

THE CAROUSEL

Just released: Gran Torino 2-Door Hardtop with new Luxury Decor Package and WSW tires.

High wire artist demonstrates Torino's incredibly smooth ride.

It took a lot more than a smooth ride to make Ford Torino the best selling car in the mid-size field.

The closer you look, the better we look.

Optional AM/FM stereo radio with front and rear dual speakers.

Torino's instrument panel. All gauges are easy to read, controls within easy reach of driver.

Front disc brakes are standard on Torino. Power front disc brakes optional.

Optional electric rear window defroster. (Torino's major competitor doesn't offer it.)

Torino offers optional steel-belted radial ply tires on all models.

A longer wheelbase and wider front and rear track than major competitor, for a smooth, stable ride.

Behind Torino's smooth ride are better ideas in engineering. Like angle mounted shock absorbers for increased directional stability. Rubber body/frame mounts that help isolate the passenger compartment from road shocks. And a coil spring rubber-insulated front suspension that helps minimize noise and road vibration.

Inside you'll find expansive room up front. Plus the kind of luxury you'd expect from high priced automobiles.

So take a good, close look at Ford Torino for '73. Discover why it's become the best selling car in the mid-size field.

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Production Down, Income Up... Cattle on Feed Increases Again... Cattle, Calf, Sheep Sales.

Wool and mohair producers are enjoying some of the best prices they've received in years. Mohair prices, for example, were 89 percent higher in 1972 than in 1971. Wool prices are 32 cents per pound on the average higher for 1972 than for 1971.

Increased demand for the commodities plus a continuing decline in production are reasons for the price situation.

Texas mohair production during 1972 was down 32 percent from 1971. The number of goats and kids clipped during 1972 totaled 1,521,000 head, down 31 percent from 1971.

Average price for mohair during 1972 was 83 cents; this compared with only 30.1 cents per pound during 1971. Total 1972 value of mohair to Texas producers was $8,458,000, up 89 percent from 1971.

While mohair production was declining, so was wool. Texas sheep produced 29,400,000 pounds of wool during 1972, a decline of three percent.

A total of 4,145,000 head of sheep shorn on Texas ranches averaged 7.1 pounds per fleece during 1972, down slightly from 1971.

The average price per pound of wool during 1972 was 48 cents; this is 32 cents a pound above 1971. Total value of wool produced was $14,100,000 in 1972 compared with only $4,900,000 in 1971.

Nationwide, the production of wool also declined three percent during 1972. A one percent decrease in number of sheep and lambs shorn was also noted in 1972.

IT'S THE same story for Texas and cattle on feed. Texas continues to be the number one cattle feeding state in the nation. During April, a total of 2,259,000 head of cattle were on feed in Texas feedlots. This is 22 percent above the number a year ago, and three percent above the total a month ago.

Indications now are that close to 4,000,000 head of cattle will be fed out in Texas this year, which will be another healthy increase over last year.

Feedlot operators report intentions to market 1,320,000 cattle between now and June 30. This would be 21 percent more than marketed during the April-June quarter of last year, again proof positive that cattle producers are expanding their operations and not holding back on cattle in an attempt to keep the price at high levels.

Large feedlots--those with 1,000-plus capacity--numbered 238 in Texas and held 2,211,000 cattle on feed for slaughter market. Capacity for these lots showed a 76 percent occupancy.

Steers account for the bulk of cattle on feed with a total of 1,462,000 head, heifers and cows totaled 797,000 head.

Nationwide, cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in 23 major feeding states is five percent above a year earlier. Marketings now through June are anticipated to be five percent higher than a year ago.

SALES of cattle, calves, and sheep increased in Texas during March, while sales of hogs declined.

Cattle and calves marketed through auctions in Texas during March was 38 percent higher than a year ago, and nearly 50 percent higher than a month ago.

Sheep sales were three percent higher than a year ago, and 75 percent above a month ago.

Hog sales during March in Texas were 15 percent below a year ago, but 28 percent above a month ago.

Read Directions For Proper Use Of Pesticides

This year it is more important than ever to read the directions on the container before spraying that rosebush or dusting that cotton field, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White pointed out.

"It's a matter of federal law this year," Commissioner White explained. "The Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act of 1972 set out some firm rules on how pesticides can be used in insect control. The rules are printed on the product label and any use of the pesticide other than that indicated is a violation of this federal law."

The printed directions are for the protection of both the user and the environment, Commissioner White noted. Many products are very specialized in what they will or will not do. And the misuse of insecticides often can be harmful.

"It just makes sense to read and follow directions," he added.

Farmers are especially urged to check the product labels this season. Pesticides represent a big investment to the grower. He should get his money's worth by making certain he uses the proper product at the right time in the most effective manner.

"Beware of misleading statements in newspaper advertisements," the Commissioner emphasized. "Generalized claims in the ads do not give full information. Instead, rely on the directions on the product label to tell you what the product is designed to do--and how to use it properly."

In cases of damage to the environment or injury to human or animal life caused by improper pesticide handling, the user is subject to penalties of this federal law.

Information on the correct disposal of pesticide containers can be obtained by writing to John C. White, Commissioner, Texas Department of Agriculture, Box 12847, Austin 78711. Ask for Pamphlet #TDA-Q-423A.

Service Is By-Word For Hospital Auxiliary

With service as their by-word, St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary members have given both their time and their talents to assist hospital patients and their families.

Auxiliary volunteers have given more than 3,000 hours during the past year and also donated handmade gift items to sell at the Auxiliary gift shop in the hospital lobby.

The volunteers run the information desk, the gift and snack bar, deliver patients mail, visit patients, and help in any other way they can to make patients and visitors feel welcome.

Several years ago the St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary pledged $10,000 to the development fund of St. Edward Hospital. The auxiliary has paid $4,000 on their commitment and will pay another $1,000 in June. This money has been raised by holding bake sales, luncheons, flea markets, arts and crafts sales, and the proceeds from the gift and snack bar.

The auxiliary will hold a Country Fair and Bazaar on June 1, on the parking lot of the First Baptist Church. The bazaar will be open from 4 to 8:30 p.m. and will feature all types of handicrafts, baked goods, and garden vegetables.

Mrs. Richard Bush, Auxiliary president, said towns people have been contacted to make and donate items to be sold. "If anyone who has not been contacted desires to donate to the auxiliary it would be greatly appreciated," Mrs. Bush said. "They may call any member of the auxiliary and they will be happy to explain the type of items which are being asked for."

Auxiliary officers in addition to Mrs. Bush are: Mrs. D. R. Dodson, first vice - president, Mrs. Hilliard Thomas, second vice - president, Mrs. Dean White, third vice - president, Mrs. Douglas Perrin, secretary, and Mrs. Alvin Nolte, treasurer.

CHARTER VOLUNTEER - Mrs. John Sapp, a charter member of the St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary is one of 25 volunteers who gave more than 3,000 hours to assist patients and their families at the hospital during the past year.

Texas Tech Convocation Honors Sandra Stecher

Sandra Stecher was honored at the Texas Tech University Recognition Convocation in March for "contributing with distinction to the University in the fields of scholarship and leadership."

Miss Stecher, a 1970 honor graduate of Lake Highlands High School in Dallas, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Stecher of Dallas and the granddaughter of Mrs. Leo V. Stecher, Cameron.

She has also been selected as one of six recipients of the 1973 Merit Scholarship Award given by the Lubbock City Panhellenic from a field of 57 nominees for the award.

Awarding of the Merit Scholarship is made on the basis of high scholarship, dedication to sorority and service to the University. She is a member of Delta Gamma Sorority.

MISS SANDRA STECHER

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. James Brock and children have moved into their new home on the Marlow Road south of Cameron.

Also recently moved are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grothe who purchased the former Edison Fikes home on Renie Dr.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hanel, Arthur and Stephen spent the past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Jekel in San Antonio. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bierschen and Carrie in Austin.

Birth

To Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Leon Tucker, 1006 E. 6th St., a boy, Timothy Leon Jr., 6 pounds 2 ounces, born April 21 at Scott and White Hospital, Temple.

Artist To Exhibit Work In Dallas

Mrs. B. F. (Gene) Harbour of Rogers will exhibit her paintings in Dallas May 5 and 6, at "The 500 Inc. Annual Spring Charity Arts Festival. The Arts Festival will be held in the covered parking facility of Campbell Centre.

Mrs. Harbour's exhibit will include work in oil, water color, and pen and ink. There will be landscapes, seascapes, and still life.

Mrs. Harbour has exhibited paintings at many places in Texas, including Rockport, Belton, Austin, Victoria, Temple, Waco, Dallas, Wimberley, and Glen Rose. She has won prizes and ribbons for her work at the Heart O' Texas Fair in Waco, the State Fair in Dallas at exhibits and fairs in Fredericksburg, Victoria, Rockport, Temple, Waco, Wimberley, and in other states.

CWU Sets Fellowship Luncheon

May Fellowship Day will be celebrated by Cameron Church Women United with a noon covered dish luncheon Friday, May 4 at the First Presbyterian Church. Father William Benish will be guest speaker.

This year's theme, "As Hand Touches Hand," will celebrate the spirit of Christian women as they reach out in volunteer services in their local communities.

This May Fellowship Day will be a salute to the volunteers from local units of Church Women United who have initiated programs in health care, in education for children and adults, in services to the aging and to the imprisoned. Volunteers are working as monitors of legislation, as advocates for self-help programs, and as educators in the areas of consumerism, ecology, peace - building, international trade, and human rights.

DKG Sets Luncheon

Beta Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma will hold its final meeting of the school year with a luncheon at Rockdale's Peace Lutheran Church, Saturday, May 5.

Mrs. Laginia Hale, Area Director, will be guest speaker. The program will honor the Society's international founders, the Chapter's past presidents, and members claimed by death.

Grill An Open-Face Danish Sandwich

Open-face sandwiches are a Danish favorite, although they are usually served cold. Here's an American variation on the Danish original recently developed in the test kitchens of the Denmark Cheese Association. It consists of thin slices of very rare steak set tidily on strips of bread and topped with your choice of Danish cheeses. Heat the sandwiches at grill-side to melt the cheese and bring out its rich flavor. What a convenient way to serve ambrosial food hot from the grill!

Use a flavorful and thrifty flank steak or any cut thick enough to be carved into thin crosswise slices.

Danish Grilled Cheese Steak Sandwiches

Marinade:

1/2 cup oil
1/4 cup wine vinegar
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 cup (2 oz.) crumbled Danish Blue Cheese

1 flank steak (2 to 2 1/2 pounds) trimmed
3 hero rolls or small French loaves
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

6 ozs. Danish Cheese (Esrom, Havarti, Tybo, Samsøe, Danbo or Blue Cheese)

Combine ingredients for marinade in a bowl. Add steak. Marinate for 1 to 2 hours. Barbecue flank steak 4-5 minutes each side for medium rare. Baste frequently with marinade. Carve steak into thin slices, cutting diagonally across the grain. Split hero rolls lengthwise, spread with sweet butter and mustard. Top with slices of steak and Danish cheese. Cover bottom with foil, heat on grill until cheese melts. Cut into pieces and serve; makes 6 main course servings, more hors d'oeuvre.

NOISE BARRIERS

Properly designed landscape plantings can deflect, absorb and mask excessive environmental noise, says a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Plantings 25 to 50 feet wide placed close to the noise source have been shown to reduce high frequency noise more than 50 percent. Combinations of trees and shrubs generally provide the most effective noise control. Vines on exterior walls of buildings also reduce noise.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN

The bill collection agent plays a necessary role in our society, since so much of our economy is based on credit transactions.

His purpose and the creditor's rights are well recognized in our laws and our courts.

But the laws also recognize the fact that an overzealous bill collector should not infringe on the rights of a debtor, and the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office works to enforce the prohibitions against harassment and false collection practices.

The average creditor and the average professional collection agent are interested only in getting debts settled. They work under the assumption that if a person gets behind in his payments, he has a good reason, and they try to find out the reason and work out a payment plan to suit the debtor's individual situation.

Some bona fide retail credit bureaus even offer debt counseling services, without charge, to help both the consumer and the merchants.

So, if an illness, job problem or some other personal crisis leads to a money problem and you have to delay bill payments, you should not hesitate to speak honestly about them to your creditors. You'll probably find them more than willing to help you work through that difficult time.

The prohibitions against deceptive debt collection practices are aimed at the unscrupulous few who would resort to misleading, and sometimes harmful, methods of collection.

These are well-defined in the Federal Trade Commission guidelines:

1) A debt collector cannot threaten that he is turning an account over to an attorney, unless he actually is doing so.

2) He cannot pretend to represent and independent collection agency, if he actually works for the creditor firm or its subsidiary.

3) He cannot state that the consumer's credit record will be adversely affected, or that his employer will be notified, unless those are true facts.

4) He cannot use stationery, letterhead or envelope designed to imply an official governmental association. (Under Texas state law, it is a misdemeanor to simulate legal process. So a collection notice designed to look like a court order is illegal.)

Obituaries

Moore

Miss Nellie Moore, 83, lifelong resident of Milam County, died Saturday in a Rosebud hospital. She had been in declining health for a number of years.

She was born October 16, 1889, the daughter of William B. Moore and Ellen Morris Moore.

Funeral service was held at 3 p.m. Monday in the chapel of Green Funeral Home. Burial was in Little River Cemetery.

Surviving her are cousins.

Leaflet

Presents

Oil Facts

DALLAS

Current facts and figures on the Texas petroleum industry have been compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn. in the latest edition of its annual leaflet, titled "73 Facts About Texas Oil and Gas," which is distributed free to the public.

The new leaflet covers statistical highlights of the petroleum industry's functions in Texas, featuring such categories as drilling, production, offshore activities, economics, employment, taxation, and refining--processing. Historical references are included in the "general" category.

The new facts leaflet also includes a summary of the nation's energy situation, pointing out that oil and natural gas supply more than 75 percent of U. S. energy needs; that billions of barrels of oil and quadrillions of cubic feet of gas probably remain undiscovered under the nation's land and sea areas; and that 10 billion barrels of oil have been discovered on Alaska's North Slope, but are unavailable until a pipeline is built.

On other current sources of energy, "73 Facts" notes that coal provides 20 percent of U. S. energy needs (with 300-400 years of reserves); nuclear power about 1 percent (possibly 11 percent by 1985); and water power 4 percent, with little advancement expected.

The leaflet also notes that the future contributions of other possible energy sources -- solar, geothermal, tidal, wind, etc. -- are currently unpredictable and their development could be decades away.

Single copies of "73 Facts About Texas Oil and Gas" are free on request from the Association, 2920 Southland Center, Dallas 75201.

NONFERTILE EGGS

Fertile eggs are no more nutritious than non-fertile eggs, contends a poultry marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. However, fertilized eggs are generally more expensive due to the extra cost of keep a rooster. There are differences in fertilized eggs and embryos, which are considered a delicacy in some parts of the Orient.

Where the Deer and the Antelope Play

I should have known everything would be all right when I took Bob home to the ranch during spring break. One of the nicest things about our falling in love has been finding that we agree about almost everything under the sun.

Bob won Mom's heart the minute we got there. Laurie, my little sister, asked, "Come see my bird's nest?" "Sure," Bob said, and away they went. Mom beamed. She thinks anyone who likes children and birds is all right.

Later, Bob played basketball with my brothers and tinkered with the tractor, getting black and greasy right along with Dad. Everybody loved him.

Sunday we all went to church. Standing there, singing with Bob, my family close by, I thanked God for His goodness.

I'm glad that God and his church have been an important part of my life and of Bob's. Our life together will be enriched by this shared reverence.

Your church offers joyous fellowship. Why don't you go --and take your family with you?

Water Skiers Need Extra Care

Texas lakes are warming up, and this brings out the water skiers.

Skiers mean an extra responsibility for boat owners. The first skier sighted on the water should be a signal for boat operators to be extra cautious.

A skier down in the water is hard to see, and your propeller could make a mess of him.

Of course, a skier is responsible to a large degree for his own safety. The first step in this direction is making sure that his boat driver is competent and reliable.

The driver should know how to keep the rope taut and avoid jerks which will injure the skier's shoulders. He should know that horse-play in a boat can have serious consequences. And he should be alert for a fallen skier so that he can circle immediately for the pick-up.

Many experienced drivers insist on having a second person in the boat as a spotter. This is not a legal requirement, but the law does require a four-inch-square mirror mounted in the boat if the skier is being towed.

For his part, the skier must make himself visible as possible when he falls in heavy boat traffic. He can do this by holding one ski in the air as a signal to other boaters.

The skier should also wear some sort of life-saving device. Although many skiers prefer the ski-belts, they should keep in mind that the belts are not designed to keep them upright if unconscious. And to fill the legal requirements, if the skier is being towed by a boat 26 feet long or less, there must be a Coast Guard-approved life saving device on board the boat for him, if he is not wearing one.

Children 12 years old and under must wear a Coast Guard-approved life jacket when a passenger inside the boat, as well as when they are skiing.

A skier should have communication with his driver, and this can only be done with hand signals. These signals should be worked out before the skier takes to the water since misunderstandings could lead to an accident.

Boat operators are the "eyes" of the skier, and it is up to them to avoid obstacles such as submerged stumps and rocks. And they should avoid the temptation to speed along parallel to dams. Several skiers have lost quite a lot of hide when they fell along concrete structures.

As a matter of courtesy, fishermen should be avoided. There is a quiet sport. A smart aleck skier is going to cause some hard feelings, and remember, you are legally responsible for any damage caused by your wake.

Alcohol Programs Set At Buckholts

The Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project (ASAP), Services for Problem Drinker Drivers (SPDD) and the Central Texas Council on Alcoholism will present two programs on alcohol and traffic safety in Buckholts schools on May 8.

Mrs. Nancy Eyman, Education Coordinator for ASAP Clifford Hughes, Public Information and Education Coordinator for SPDD, and Mrs. Giner Roark of the Council on Alcoholism, will present an 8:30 a.m. seminar to Mrs. Linda Phillips home-making class. They will also present a 1 p.m. assembly seminar for all junior and senior high school students.

In addition, students will have the opportunity to view ASAP's highway safety laboratory, Intoximeter breath testing machine, and youth oriented audio visuals.

The programs will present materials on reducing the alcohol related deaths and accidents on highways, and alcohol and the family.

FAST FOUR YEARS:

Does it really seem almost four years since the collegiate football world was stunned by the tragedy of Freddie Steinmark? You recall he lost his left leg to cancer six days after helping Texas win the 1969 National Championship in that 15-14 Big Shootout at Fayetteville. Eighteen months later Freddie, all 5-9 and 155-pounds, lost his life. In May, they start filming the "Freddie Steinmark Story" on the UT Forty Acres he loved so well he wrote a book about it when he knew he was dying.

After Oklahoma announced it was forfeiting nine '72 victories in which illegally recruited Kerry Jackson quarterbacked, Oregon Publicist Hal Cowan called his OU opposite John Keith. "Send us the game ball!" Cowan demanded, tongue-in-cheek. Oklahoma, you recall, beat Oregon, 68-3... A knowledgeable SWC figure laughed at printed Oklahoma accusations that the Suddenly Sad Sooners were turned in by Darrell Royal. "Anyone who knows the rules knows better than that," he said. "That investigation is being carried out by the Big Eight Conference. A member of the Southwest Conference could only turn them in to the NCAA. The Oklahoma coaches know they were not turned in by Texas."

John Platzer, an expert on Aggies since he once Sports Bossed the Aggie Battalion and the Bryan Daily Eagle, waxes ecstatic over Bubba Bean, the Kirbyville Komet. Platzer, writing in the Beaumont Journal, predicts future Aggie Super Kids will want to wear the Maroon No. 44, because "Bubba Bean wore it." That was the Jumper John David Crowhaule to Heisman Trophy honors just South of Old Sully...

QUICKIES:

Well, now they're planning to investigate illegal recruiting in the Lone Star Conference. Just remember, the first school accused of cheating will announce: "We were only doing what everyone else is doing." Then, next their fans will ask, incredulously, "Who was the coward who turned us in?" ... Do you realize UCLA has not lost an NCAA Playoff game in 10 years? ... How long has it been since a college coach complained to Conference officials about language employed by the opposition. SMU Baseball Coach Bob Finley did just after his Mustangs lost a doubleheader at Texas A&M. "I say a nasty word every once in a while," Finley said, "but in all my years of baseball, no team I've played for or one I coached myself has ever taken a cursing like the one we got down there." (At College Station.)

JUPITER AIR

Jupiter's atmosphere contains ammonia, methane, hydrogen, and probably water, the same ingredients that may have produced life on earth about four billion years ago. Many scientists believe that large regions below the frigid cloud layer may be at room temperature. These conditions could allow the planet to produce living organisms.

Industrial Group To Hold Conference

Steve Miketic, a veteran executive for more than a quarter century with Westinghouse Electric Corp., will deliver the keynote address May 10 at the 5th annual Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion.

Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the sponsoring Texas Industrial Commission, announced the acceptance of Miketic, who joins a select group of speakers and panelists at the one-day event, scheduled for Austin's Municipal Auditorium.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, host for the state's annual recognition of existing industries, will deliver the principal address at the luncheon, which will also feature presentations to the five industries to be honored for their economic growth during 1972.

Weekly Market Report

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, cited onions as one example of the rain-soaked price hike.

"Onion prices are completely out of range, and improved conditions aren't likely immediately. This is a good time to use favorite herbs and spices to high-light foods."

"Carrots brighten produce counters -- colorwise and pricewise, and fresh asparagus is about as low as it will be, since it's never a 'thirty' choice and has a short season."

Other economical vegetable choices are cabbage, bulk turnips, cooking greens and potatoes, the specialist noted.

Texas grapefruit and orange supplies zipped over early forecasts, and best choices are firm, well-shaped fruits heavy for their size. Cantaloupes and honeydew melons rate relatively high pricewise. Bananas, strawberries, pineapple and avocados offer varying price levels.

"Egg prices, a bit higher now than a year ago, remain an economical protein food -- large-size eggs weighing at least 24 ounces and selling at 63 cents a dozen cost only about 42 cents a pound," Mrs. Clyatt explained.

She recommended turkey as high in protein, low in cost and one of the lowest meats in calories.

The Lonely Heart

Extension Service Plans Study Grain Pests

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has launched a three-year study on grain sorghum pest management. The study will be centered in the Edmonson Community of Hale County on the South Plains.

The effort is part of an expanded educational thrust by the Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Grain Sorghum Producers Board which has headquarters at Lubbock. Participating producers will also help fund the program.

Hale County Extension Agent Ollie Liner will supervise the program which will involve a newly appointed county entomologist, Gene Latham of Paducah, La., a Texas A&M University graduate, will supervise the scouting phase of the program which concerns checking fields for insect populations and determining the need for insecticide applications. Extension Area Entomologist Dr. Robert C. McIntyre of Lubbock is the project leader and coordinator.

The project will encompass 20,000 acres of grain sorghum within a three to five-mile radius of Edmonson. The site was selected for its heavy production record and its ideal location near large cotton acreage, necessary to assure the use of beneficial insects found in cotton fields.

According to Liner and McIntyre, "The new program is designed to provide producers with an effective advisory service and to help them take advantage of available control methods that would increase grain yields without upsetting the environment."

The project is designed to utilize natural populations of beneficial insects which actually help keep plant-destroying insects at a minimum.

"We know we've been overspraying in some instances in recent years," Liner said. "This has been demonstrated by research of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and by demonstration plots in Hale County. These studies have shown that greenbugs, major grain sorghum pests, can be controlled effectively with minimum amounts of insecticides. The studies have also determined how many greenbugs that sorghum plants can tolerate without suffering yield loss."

Liner and McIntyre emphasized that the new program will help producers, through their own personal involvement, demonstrate their interest in maintaining the balance of the environment.

Jack King, research director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Board which is co-sponsoring the pilot project with Texas A&M's Agricultural Extension Service, described the program as a "serious effort of producers to meet growing demands of the market without upsetting the natural environment."

"The Grain Sorghum Producers Board is enthusiastic about supporting the project on a regional basis as well as statewide," he said. "We would like to see a balanced, integrated pest control program used through the Great Plains."

McIntyre noted, "Looking beyond the three-year project, we hope the pest management concept and the integrated control techniques involved will become an accepted practice throughout the grain sorghum producing areas of the U. S. Hale County, we believe, will play an important role in accomplishing this goal."

SENIOR CITIZENS MONTH will be celebrated in the county Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Community Center and on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the New Salem Club House in Rockdale's Fair Park. Watching County Judge O. B. Harden signing the proclamation are, seated, from left, Mrs. Clyde Holliman, Mrs. Frank Hanel, Mrs. Wavy Charles, Mrs. W. I. Skinner. Standing, from left, Miss Vivian Pittman, Mrs. L. E. Lamere, W. S. Turner, Mrs. O. B. Brockman and Miss Chris Laws.

Accent on Health

Despite the rich bounty provided to us by the land, Texas and the nation are described as nutritional illiterates.

Nutrition is a relatively new science. For this reason there is room for misunderstanding, and even intentional misrepresentation. Although much malnutrition is the result of poverty, a full pocket doesn't mean a nourished body, says the State Health Department.

Focus on the high price of meat has made Texans more aware of their eating habits. But one group of individuals -- the food faddists -- are willing to pay through the nose (and sometimes through their health) for items no better than those offered in supermarkets.

Like bobbysox, beeboppers, pointed toes shoes, ponytails and rock 'n roll, fads come and go. But for some the memory may linger on since food fads can affect health and quality of living for a long time.

A big fad at the moment is the weight reduction kick, which is tied in by food faddists with better health and some particular food-stuff which they say can cure all the ills of the believers.

Many diet or nutrition advocates are opportunists whose major motivations are economic. Some of these persons appear to be sincere, albeit misguided and close-minded in their nutritional beliefs.

A look at the highly-publicized diets which have been put forth gives you an idea of the perplexing situations greeting those interested in dieting -- either for weight loss or other health reasons.

The drinking man's diet, Zen diet, grapefruit and egg diet (misnamed the Mayo diet), vegetarian diet, cereal diet, low-protein, high-protein, low carbohydrate diet -- are all a part of the present-day food craze, says the Health Department. Some, such as the Zen diet, can result in malnutrition.

And, there are the vitamins and food supplement faddists who push all types of supplement concoctions off on the willing indulger. Vitamin E and Vitamin C, both essential to the body, are among the vitamins being pushed at present.

Make your home and yard an unattractive habitat for snakes -- get rid of cover and possible food sources and block access to your residence area.

According to Charles Ramsey, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the best way to get rid of snakes is to do away with their food and cover. Lumber and trash piles, tall grass or weeds and over-turned boats are among the favorite hiding places for the reptiles.

Most of our poisonous snakes feed mainly on rats, mice and other small rodents. Eliminating these rodents by poisoning and trapping, plus removing their food and cover, keeps snakes away from the home. Holes in yard fences and buildings should also be blocked.

"The best preventative medicine for snakes is to keep them away from people," says the Texas A&M University specialist. "A snake alone is not a pest. Only when it comes in contact with human activities is a pest situation created."

All snakes are beneficial since they feed on pests such as insects, grubs and rodents. For this reason, non-poisonous ones should not be harmed.

Snakes can be a particular problem after hurricanes in coastal areas. If one does invade a home or building, several methods may be used to remove it, suggests Ramsey.

Rid Place Of Food, Cover To Discourage Snakes

One way is to set a trap using a couple of moist burlap bags. The snake will crawl into the damp area between the bags and can be easily removed. Fumigants also can be used, but only a professional exterminator should do the fumigating.

Houses and yards are not the only place snakes can become pests. Sometimes they are trouble around poultry and fish hatcheries. Snakeproof fences or persistent killing are used in these cases. In other places funnel traps or fumigation of burrows or dens may be justified.

"If you must kill a snake, use a long-handled tool such as a shovel or hoe," says the specialist. "Poisonous snakes can strike for about a third of their length. The long handle provides a safety factor while crushing or cutting off its head."

In Texas, there are four major poisonous species of snakes. These are rattlesnakes, copperheads, copperheads, cotton-mouth water moccasins and coral snakes. All are easily identified.

Rattlesnakes, copperheads and cotton-mouth moccasins are typical poisonous snakes and have several identifying characteristics. Each has a head distinctly wider than their neck and somewhat triangle-shaped. There is a depression or pit between the eye and nostril on each side of the head. These pits contain nerve endings sensitive to heat and enable a snake to detect warm-blooded prey, even at night. The three snakes also have distinct, hollow, moveable fangs.

Non-poisonous snakes, on the other hand, have tapered heads and no fangs.

According to Ramsey, the coral snake is an exception to this general rule. This brightly colored reptile has a head that is not distinctly larger than the neck and has short, erect fangs. Arrangement of color bands is the key to its identification.

Coral snakes have yellow, red and black rings encircling the body. The yellow ring always touches the red ring, which is not true with similar non-poisonous snakes. "An easy way to remember this is the rhyme -- 'Red and yellow, kill a fellow,'" notes the specialist.

Business Workshop Set At Belton

A special workshop in business skills will begin June 5 at Mary Hardin-Baylor College, according to Dr. Beatrix Huston, chairman of the business administration department.

The workshop will be held from 10:20 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. each day, Monday thru Friday, from June 5 thru July 6, and will cost $95, including a lab fee. The cost rates three semester credit hours in college, but is open to all who wish to improve their basic business skills, Dr. Huston said.

The workshop involves shorthand, the use of business machines, secretarial training, office procedures, and typewriting.

Dr. Huston said the workshop is part of the expanded MH-B "Summer of '73" program.

FISH CONSUMPTION

Until recently, consumption of edible fish products in the United States has averaged 11 pounds or more per person each year since 1968.

SOME "GUARDIAN ANGELS" LOOK A LITTLE DIFFERENT

And some of them, such as this one, have unusual names. Electrostatic precipitator. It's a protective guardian of the air you and your children breathe -- a complex, mechanical giant being installed at Texas Power & Light Company's new lignite-fueled generating plants to safeguard the quality of the air -- and your environment.

But it's only one of the guardian measures TP&L uses. Soil is reclaimed at lignite plants by sodding beneficial grasses in areas where lignite has been produced. TP&L also conducts water and aquatic life studies in its power plant reservoirs to find better ways to preserve (and enhance) the quality of both. Even new substations are being designed to be eye-pleasing.

As your needs for electricity continue to grow, TP&L must also -- but we do it with protective concern for the environment.

wounds for four and half years.
What did they wear? Two pairs of pajamas, similar outer garments, shirts.

What did they eat? A bowl of soup, some bread, twice a day.

Any communication? Hoffson received about a dozen letters of some 150 written by relatives to him. No prisoner saw pencil or paper, any literary or reading material except a few propaganda newsheets the Viet Cong wanted them to see. "We asked for a Bible, but never received one."

Were released American POWs indoctrinated on what to say upon arrival in the U. S.? Only advised about statements which may affect operations in that area. (A prospect for renewed hostilities after the truce is not remote.)

Exercise? After 1970, an hour and a half each morning, each afternoon. Hoffson took about an hour and a half of calisthenics in his cell each day thinking that was enough.
Some exercised six hours a day.

CHANGES DRAMATIC

How about the changes in the
U. S.? "Just great," he says.
"Changes were dramatic. I went out and bought new clothes, let my hair grow longer. I am aware of your greater involvement."

How did faith last?

"We had fears, doubts, personality conflicts. Faith in God, self, own abilities helps when you're strapped to an iron bed, physically tortured. How do you face this? You do it with hate and contempt for the enemy, love for those back home, with compassion for fellows, with a sense of humor."

He recites his poem. "The years move swiftly. . . ."

"Years gained for me a deepened sense of confidence in our society. I am staying in the Air Force, going to Randolph Field to train in the T-38, on to Arizona."

"Everything's looking great," he says.

Capt. Hoffson receives the third standing ovation at the end of his student question-answer period. The same happens at Rotary, probably wherever men like him speak.

He is introduced at Yoe High School Library by Randy Tumlinson, president of YHS Honor Society, which for three years sought aid and release of American POWs like Cameronite Hoffson, nephew of Mrs.
Make McDermott.

He wears a Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal (with clusters) a number of other ribbons for service in Southeast Asia.

He seemed delighted to be in Cameron. Perhaps because he read the sign in YHS library which said:
"Happiness is having you home, Capt.
Hoffson."

Fab 50'S "Remember When" Sale...

As we "Remember When," let's take a look at the supermarket. Yes, current prices seem higher; we are as concerned about them as you are. We must shop just as hard and as carefully as you do to be able to offer the lowest possible prices on the wide variety of choices and the conveniences you have come to expect from our store. However, the modern supermarket, as we know it today, does not have a very long history. It has evolved in the past 20 or 25 years. Big-volume, self-service merchandising—which is not a part of the American way—was pioneered by the grocery industry in the late forties. The neighborhood grocery store, with home delivery service and charge accounts, began to fade from the scene in the early fifties.

The grocery store really became a super market, with lower prices and more consumer conveniences and services. Conveniences which we often take for granted, such as one-stop shopping in air conditioned stores; ample, adjacent parking; and over 8,000 items in a single store, were just becoming a reality in the fifties. Convenience foods became popular as more snack and make-ahead foods, and partially-to-fully-prepared foods were created for easy family meals and entertaining. Longer shopping hours were demanded until now we can shop 24 hours a day in many stores.

In this time of tremendous inflationary prices, food prices have gone up, along with many other things. We, too, are very concerned about the high price of food. We are constantly striving to hold costs down and want you to know we will continue to use modern advancements and search out even better ways that will enable us to bring you good nutritious food at the lowest possible cost.
